Knowing How

is just plain good business

You know that old saying "Birds of a feather flock together" - we take a certain amount of pride in offering you Clothcraft Clothes because we are following in our business the same principles that have made these clothes such a wonderful success.

It was only natural that we. in our endeavor to offer you real values, should become interested in the sale of clothes whose makers have had quality and values their watch word for 68 years.

This not only holds good in clothing, but throughout our entire store you will find proofs of careful buying for your benefit.

We want you to see the No. 5130 Blue Serge Special at $15 -- the many other fabrics and patterns of Clothcraft Clothes at $10 to $30—the hats, shirts, ties, etc., that we have here for you.

We must know how to buy and sell if we are to give the best service to you. Our entire effort is to give the best service to you. Our entire effort is to improve in these two directions.

Otto Kahn On Financial Farm Loans

Every citizen who desires to become capable in business should study banking, and every farmer who wants to see the business of agriculture properly financed should study diligently the financial systems of other industries. All other lines of industry have developed financial facilities adapted to their needs. We have all sorts of financial syndicates authorized by law or custom to deal in a certain line of securities, but in none of these financial channels will farm securities travel without a bonus

The most powerful financial institutions in America are private banks and they are the most important to the financial life of industry. In no line of business does honesty, efficiency and stability make more imperative demands than upon private bankers, whose greatest asset is the confidence of the buying public in his business judgment and integrity. Mr. Otto Kahn of Kuhn, Loeb & Company, when asked to state the relation of the private banker to the business

"One of the most important functions of the private banker is to be the instrument for providing the money needed for the efficient conduct and development of railroads and other industries. He does this by buying securities in bulk from those needing capital, for which purpose he usually small, thus forming what is cailed a syndicate. Having in this way concluded means of advertising, circularizing and through the facilities of the retail houses included in the syndicate, many of whom employ traveling salesmen. Of course the banker and the syndicate count on a reasonable profit for their services; on the other hand they run the risk of the securities, which they have definitely bought and paid for at a fixed price, remaining on their hands whoily, or in part, if the public, for one reason or another, should be unwilling to buy them. The selling of securities is a highly specialized trade. requiring much experience, organization, machinery and scrutiny This is one of the reasons why corporations do better in offering securities to the public through bankers than if they offered them direct. of the public to buy depends upon their confidence in the integrity and the of bonds secured by farm mortgages. Bonds of this nature are issued in large quantities by mortgage banks who buy mortgages on farms and other real estate and deposit them as security for their own bonds, which in their turn are sold to bankers. It is to be hoped that similar institutions will, in course of time, be created in America, thus placing the farming industry on a par with other important industries in facilities to obtain capital."

MOB GETS LEO FRANK.

Climax Comes Unexpectedly to Sensational Georgia Crime.

A mob variously estimated as made up of from twenty hve to seventy-five men, after overpowering the warden, superintendent and gaurds of the Georgia State prison farm here, took Leo M. Frank from the dormitory at 11 o'clock last night.

First reports that they may have been friends of Frank's were dispelled when a prisoner in the dor mitory stated that he heard a member of the mob say that Frank's boby would be placed tomorrow on the grave of Mary Phagan, of Marietta.

Frank was paying a life term or the murder of the girl.

The mob was orderly, but worked with quick precision. Eight automobiles took the men to within a short distance of the prison. First all telephone wires leading to the prison and all except one from Milledgeville were cut. Five men went to the home of J. T. Smith, warden, covering him with pissols and stood guard over him. Other men went to the home of J. M. Burke, superintendent of the prison, and held him under cover of their guns. Practically every other member of the mob rushed to the stockade gate nearest the dormitory where Frank was being housed. Only yesterday did phy sicians discharge him from th hospital, where he had been since being murderiously assaulted in the dorm: tory. Previous to the attack, wires eading to the prison itself had been cut. Frank was placed in ar automobile and rushed in the di rection of Eatorton. The attack was shortly before midnight. The warden and most of the guards were sleeping on a rear poich of the main building in which the prisonero are confined. Both he and the guards were handcuffed after which the party entered the prison and removed

HISconsumptive girl lived in a little house with her parents and four brothers and a sister. When the visiting nurse of the city called upon her she found the whole family in danger of contracting tuberculosis from the young woman through ignorance of the proper methods of caring for the patient. The nurse instructed the members of the family about the preparation of the girl's food and the care of her room, so as to give her every chance for life. Most important of all, the nurse showed how the diseaseson to another through the spit and spray from the mouth of a consumptive. Ralph Peters On Railway Mail Pay

A controversy has been raging in the columns of the press between the railroads and the Federal Post Office Department over the question of proper compensation for handling the United States mails. Mr. Ralph Peters Chairman of the Railway Mail Committee, when asked to state the railroad side of the controversy to the American farmer, said in part:

The railway mail pay question will be settled-and settled permanently and with justice to all concernedas soon as the American people realize that the whole subject, while seemingly complicated and technical, boils down to a few simple points of fair business dealing which no one need be a rate expert to understand.

"The first is that the Post Office Department weighs the mails, and re adjusts the pay of the railroads, only once in four years. This compels the rallroads to carry the increase in the mail tonnage during the intervening years without pay-manifestly an injustice in the ease of a rapidly growing business. One consequence has been that last year the railroads carried fully half the parcel post for nothing.

"A second point is this: In addition to carrying the mails, the rail roads are required to operate many traveling post offices for sorting and distributing the mails while in transit. But the Post Office Department pays for such post offices only where they occupy whole cars, and pays nothinin the many cases in which it merely requires the use of post office apar ments in combination cars, although such apartments differ from the fu railway post office cars only in size. More than 4,200 apartments of this character have been fitted up, and are maintained for the exclusive use o the Post Office Department. Failure to pay for them has been an especia hardship to the smaller roads on which the Department does not find i necessary to utilize whole ears.

"One last point: In thousands of instances (though not in all) the Pos-Office Department requires the railroads to carry the mails back and forth between rallroad stations and post offices, but pays them nothing for this extra service beyond the rates covering the rall transportation. The rail roads have no choice but to perform this additional service gratis, or refus . to carry the mails at all.

"Now for the remedies the railroads ask: They do not ask to have the malls weighed dally, or to have each shipment weighed and paid for sep arately, as is done in the case of private shipuers. They merely ask t have the malls weighed, and the pay of the rallroads adjusted, at least one a year, instead of once in four years. They also ask that apartment posoffice cars be paid for, at reasonable rates, according to size. Lastly, the ask that the Post Office Department cease to require of them free messenge service between stations and post offices, and either relieve them of thi service or pay fairly for it. These are the reforms the railroads ask of Congress. They giadly lay these reforms before the public, confident that the will appeal to the common sense and fairness of American voters.'

Hon. Elihu Root On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted in four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongl urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the dut of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon Elili Root, in discussing this question before the constitutions convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to al women and to every woman; and because I believe would be an injury to the state, and to every man and every woman in the state. It would be useless to argu

this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any onusing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question t be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women wil be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

"Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority o woman. It is not that woman is interior to man, but it is that woman i different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qual: ties, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain fune tions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the

"The whole science of government is the science of presecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughou nature. It is so with mer, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arlses from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

"The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries back ward on the march towards a higher, nobler and purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes,'

F. A. Vanderlip On The Business of Banking

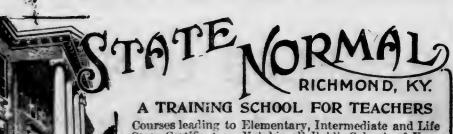

The farmers of this nation to come into their own must study business. We must, as a class, understand the fundamental principles that underlie every industry, its functions to society and its relation to agriculture, for there can be no intelligent co-operation without understanding. Mr. F. A. Vanderllp, president of the National City Bank of New York, when asked "What is a Bank?" said in part:

"The first and most familiar function of a bank is that of gathering up the idle money of a community, small sums and large, and thus forming a pool or reservoir upon which responsible persons may draw as they have temporary use for money. It is evident that this makes large sums in the aggregate available for the employment of labor and the development of the community. But much more is accomplished than the use of the money actually deposited in the banks. for by the use of drafts, checks and bank notes the efficiency of money is multiplied several times over. A very large business, for example one of the great beef packers, may use very little actual money; on one side of its bank account will be entered the checks and drafts it is daily receiving from everywhere in payment for meats, while on the other side will be entered the checks it draws in payment for cattle, etc., its only use of money being for small payments, to labor and otherwise.

"If there were but one bank in a community and everybody raid all bills by drawing checks on that bank, and everyone receiving a check immedlately deposited it in the bank, the amount of money in the bank evidently would not change at all and the entire business of the community would be settled on the books of the bank. And the situation is but slightly changed when there are several banks, for they daily exchange among themselves all the checks they receive on each other, which practically offset themselves, although the small baiances are paid in cash. This is called 'clearing,' and in every large city there is a 'Clearing House' where representatives of the banks meet daily to settle their accounts with each other. "A bank is constantly receiving from its customers, particularly those that are shipping products to other localities, drafts and checks drawn on banks in other citles, which it usually sends for deposit to a few correspondent banks in the central citles with which it maintains permanent accounts. In this way these scattered credits are consolldated and the bank draws upon these accounts in supplying customers with the means of making payments away from home. As each local community sells and buys about the same amount abroad in the course of a year, these payments largely offset each other. It is evident that the banks are very intimately related to the trade and industry of a country. The banker is a dealer in credit much more than a dealer in money, and of course his own credit must be above question. He exchanges als credit for the credits acquired by his costumers, and lends credit for their accommodation, but he must conduct the business with such judgment that he can always meet his own obligations with cash on demand. This is the essential thing about bank credit, that it shall always be the

BUILDERS OF COMMERCE

CONGRESS SHOULD GIVE THEM PREFERENCE IN APPRO-PRIATIONS.

By Peter Radford.

This nation is now entering upon an era of marine development. The wreckage of European commerce has drifted to our shores and the world war is making unprecedented de mands for the products of farm and factory. In transportation facilities on land we lead the world but our port facilities are inadequate, and our flag is seldom seen in foreign ports.
